Lapel High School offers a very wide selection of subjects in its academic curriculum. For the college-bound students there are a variety of classes offered in preparation for advanced future education. Extensive courses in mathematics, English, and science plus three languages are only a few of these. For the business-minded there are courses in secretarial studies and practical business transactions. Home Economics, Vocational Agriculture, and shop provide valuable knowledge to young people who will someday have their own homes. Physical education for both boys and girls helps to keep the students physically as well as mentally fit. The many classes in music and art provide the gifted student with a chance to develop his special talent.

A new class now being offered in the ever-growing curriculum is Exploratory Teaching. Its purpose is to acquaint students with the duties, responsibilities, and rewards of teaching and to help them decide if they would enjoy teaching as a career.

These courses of study are only a part of Lapel High School, but they are a very important part. They serve the interests, abilities, needs, and desires of each student in the school. The knowledge gained from these courses is the foundation upon which the students will build their lives.

8th Grade Has Great Year

On February 14 a group of ballplayers, cheerleaders, and fans and a proud coach celebrated wildly as the eighth grade Bulldogs topped Pendleton to complete a perfect season. Under the direction and guidance of Coach Brookfield, the eighth grade finished the year with a phenomenal season record of 24 consecutive wins. Included in these are 3 tourney victories, for the young Bulldogs downed Ingals, Leach, and St. Ambrose to capture the championship title in the 1968 Junior High Invitational Tourney. Lapel School is proud to have turned out such fine young athletes as these, for they hold the promise of future victory in high school competition.

Lapel High School is a member of the White River Conference which plays its league games during the summer months. Conference games are scheduled on a double round-robin basis. In addition, Lapel plays a non-conference schedule consisting of approximately 15 games during this same period of time. All of the baseball players deserve a great deal of recognition for their outstanding attitude, performance, and sacrifice as members of the "Bulldog" squad.

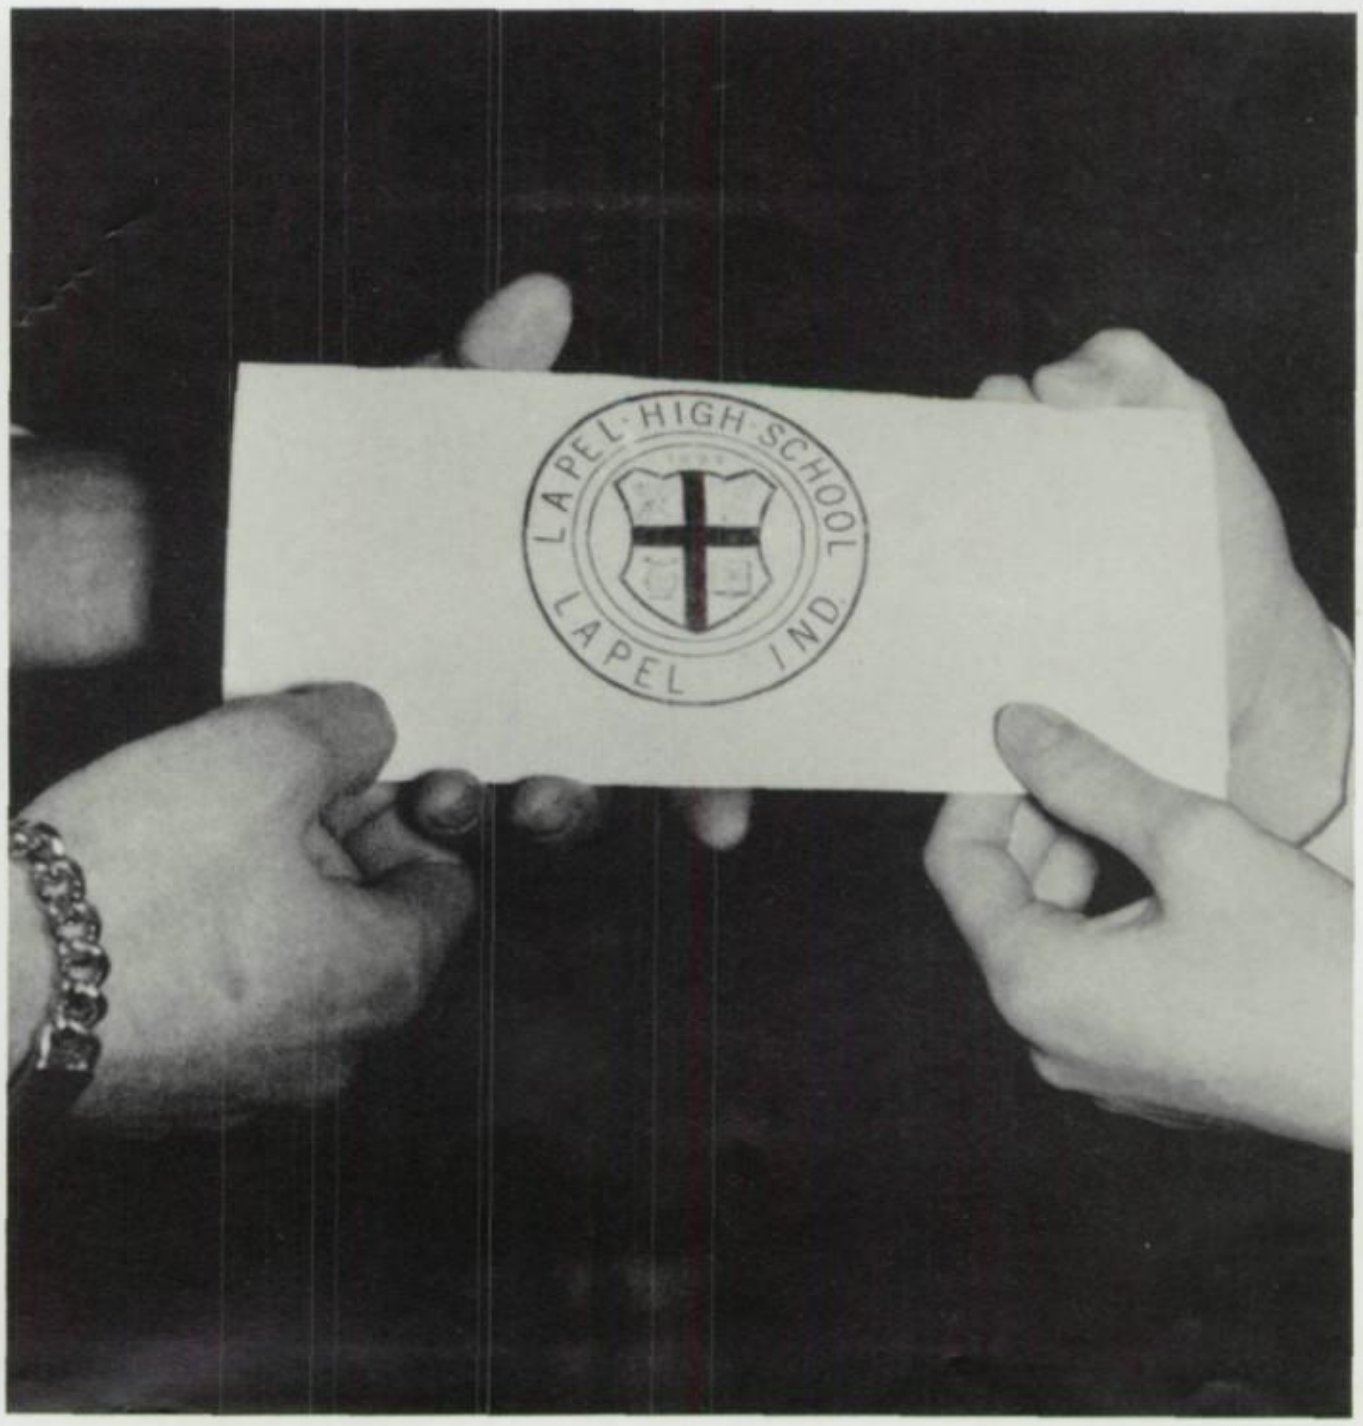
Activities

Symbols of Excellence

Activities are an integral part of our school. They provide an opportunity for students to express themselves, by working together, by displaying their talents, by disciplining themselves, by learning respect for the rights of others, and by working toward a common goal in an atmosphere of freedom. Lapel has a varied program to meet these objectives. However, it should be remembered that success is not measured by the number of activities in which a student participates, but rather by the quality of his participation in each.



Junior Play—Hillbilly Weddin'

The backwoods country of Kentucky provided a colorful setting for the confused courtship of Ceelie Belsnickle. Because of Ceelie's unattractiveness the local boys were unwilling to marry her, and she was rapidly approaching the terrible condition of spinsterhood. Mass confusion and a shotgun weddin' were the hilarious results when the eligible bachelor, Dr. Ronald Maxwell, appeared in the Belsnickle home.

On Friday, October 13, the class of 1968 performed the unique situation comedy "No Boys Allowed". The title referred to a rather hectic Senior girls' slumber party, at Rita Baxter's home, to which no boys were to be admitted. However, the party was plagued from the start by constant interruptions from boyfriends, former boyfriends, and even the police. The final result of this unusual pajama party was the capture of a criminal, the reconciliation of two injured lovers, and an electrified congo line, all amid mass confusion and hysteria.

In the Misty Moonlight

Queen: Mary Wainscott. King: Jim Prather. Bob Williamson, Vaughn Bracken, Becky Sharpe, Darlene Williamson, Jim Smith, Danna Kinnaman.

May 13th was the date chosen for the 1967 Junior-Senior Prom. The Cole Porter Room of the Sheraton-Lincoln Hotel, with its glittering chandeliers and pale blue lighting, was an impressive setting for the theme "In the Misty Moonlight". The mellow tones of the Starlighters' Band, "Theme from a Summer Place" by a junior girls' quartet, and a vocal solo by Becky Stout, "On a Clear Day", carried out the theme in entertainment. The evening was highlighted by the crowning of King and Queen, Jim Prather and Mary Wainscott, and the selection of their attendants, who reigned over the remainder of the gala event.

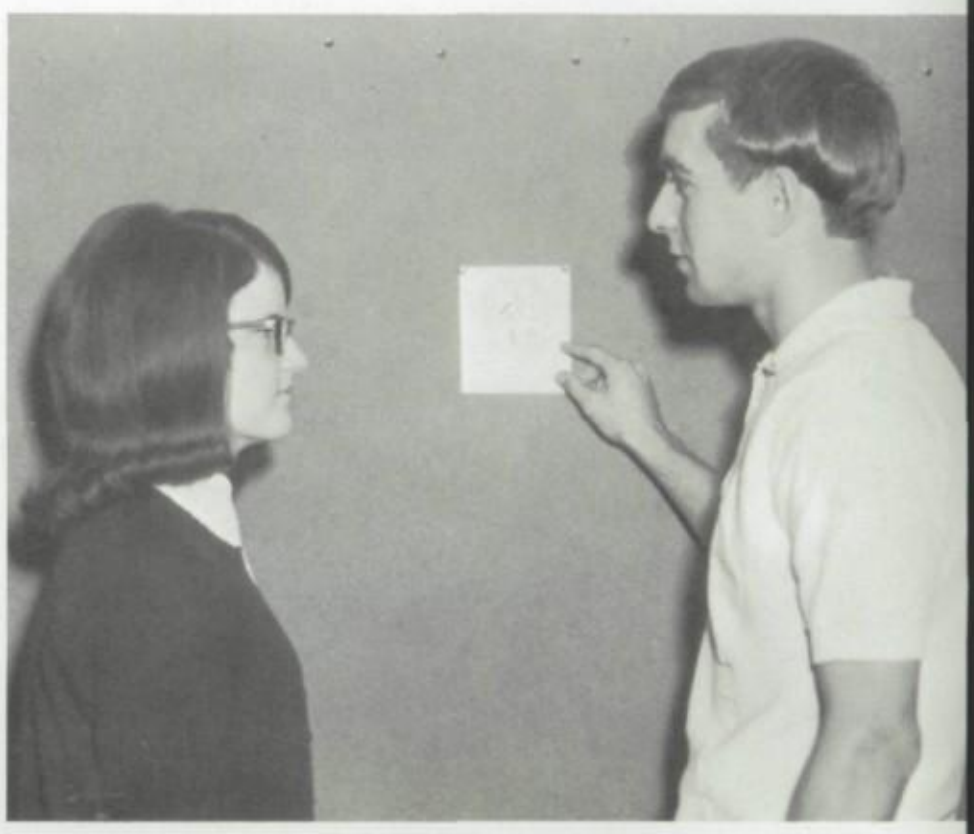
The Student Council is the only organization of student delegates who are elected by their classmates to represent them in all matters concerning the entire school. The Council, consisting of students from grades 7 through 12, has many varied activities; they include sponsoring the Halloween Carnival, the Sadie Hawkins Dance, and the Basketball Homecoming, locker checking, and hall monitoring.

Each year the Council presents a gift to the school. This year it has adopted and provided a die of the school seal. The seal was designed by Jim Prather.



Senior Jim Prather explains the seal to President Julie Kluth.

Homecoming 1968

Freshmen have THE outstanding float.

A valiant effort by the Seniors.

FFA ingenuity.

Spit balls are handy.

Queen, Becky Sharpe, and escort, Jim Prather.

The second of December was the date chosen for the festivities of the annual Lapel Homecoming. Between the "A" and "B" team ball games, a hush went through the crowd as the queen candidates appeared in glittering formal attire. The participation of the high school band under the direction of Mr. Herchel McKamey, and the narration of the events by Vaughn Bracken, a member of the Senior class, enhanced the excitement proceeding the crowning of the 1967-68 Homecoming Queen. Senior Candidate Becky Sharpe was crowned by last year's queen, Mickey Kaiser who was escorted by the vice-president of the Student Council, Phil O'Connor. Becky's court included two Senior attendants, Rosalie Shaul, and Karla Fulton; the Junior attendant, Cindy Huffman; Sophomore attendant, Debby Wise; and the Freshman attendant, Jodi Castor.

The parade of floats was presented at the half of the varsity game. The floats were designed and constructed by the junior high and high school classes and F.F.A. to be judged by a panel of four judges: Miss Terhune, Mrs. Herron, Mr. Rhodes, and Mr. Adams. The Freshmen won first place with a clever representation of the theme: "Keep LHS Clean."

Although the Lapel varsity team was defeated in their Homecoming game by the Frankton Eagles, the 1967-68 Lapel Homecoming will be pleasantly remembered by all those who attended.

This club is open to any high school girl. The purposes of the Sunshine Society are fellowship, helpfulness, and service to the school and community. Sponsored by Mrs. Huntzinger and Mrs. Worton, this club raises funds for charity purposes. The society is in charge of the used-book sale at the beginning of the school year, a valuable asset to the school and a source of funds for the club. The Sunshine candy sales and its baked goods booth at the Halloween Carnival also raise money for two major charitable contributions. The club gives a Christmas party for some of the grade school children and contributes to the Riley Fund.

The 4-H Clubs are divided into two groups: a girls' 4-H Club for future homemakers; and a boys' 4-H Club for both boys and girls who are interested in livestock, farming, or conservation.

The Young American Junior American, and Live Forever Clubs, composed of girls 10 to 18 years old are active in the Lapel area and keep up on new methods in the art of homemaking.

The Boys' 4-H Club members, are rewarded by ribbons and awards at Madison County and Indiana State Fairs.

The Junior Leaders, a 4-H division, is an opportunity for 4-Her's from 14 to 18, to assist the leaders and the younger members.

4-H Clubs are an asset to our community, for they keep with their motto of not only doing their best, but making the best better.

1968 Yearbook Queen

A new precedent set at L.H.S. this year is that of the Yearbook Queen. This year's queen is Senior Vickie Foland, who was nominated and selected from among 6 candidates by her fellow classmates. Vickie was crowned at the dance following the Lapel-Sheridan basketball game, and has the honor of reigning as the first Yearbook Queen at Lapel High School.

Academics

Symbols of Excellence

Lapel High School attempts a full and varied athletic program in an effort to meet the needs and interests of all boys. The boys display their talents in a sport they find enjoyable, all the while learning the art of working together for a common goal. The individual sportsmanship taught by team participation teaches the boys a basic and lasting discipline in fundamental human relations.

As a member of the Indiana High School Athletic Association, Lapel High School participates in interschool games and contests in baseball, track, basketball, cross country, and golf.

The I.H.S.A.A. has rigid rules governing the selection of team members. The team member must keep a good scholastic standing. He must have and be maintaining for the current semester, passing grades in each of three full-time, full-credit courses in the preceding semester. He must also be certified physically fit by a licensed physician. Many other rules are imposed to insure the high standards of the athletic program.

Those who are selected as team members have both a high distinction and a great obligation to conduct themselves so as to be a credit to their team and to their school.

French, English.

Language--The language department offers a selection of three foreign languages; French, Latin, and Spanish. Although only two years of each language are offered at the present time, plans are being made to offer more advanced study in the near future.

The French lab consists of several French records that aid the students in developing proper pronunciation of the French language, along with magazines and papers written in French. This French literature enables the French class to become acquainted with the French people and with modern France.

Although Latin is not a spoken language, it is a vital part in the development of a large and useful vocabulary. It aids the student because many English words are direct Latin derivatives. Legal terms, medical terms, and even our most advanced space terms are proof that Latin is still a "living language."

A tape recorder with separate earphones for each student enables the Spanish students to imitate a speaker whose native tongue is Spanish. The recorder aids in exericse drills and keeps the Spanish class ever advancing in their language skills.

Phys. Ed.--Physical education plays a very important role in the daily school curriculum. By providing an opportunity for vigorous physical activity, it contributes to the general health and fitness of the students. It assists the individual students in learning to work with their peers through organized team effort. It encourages good sportsmanship through friendly competition and teaches the students how to lose as well as how to win.

Physical education classes are among the required courses for all students in grades 7 through 10. Among the activities of the boys classes are basketball, softball, gymnastics, track, volleyball, soccer, hiking, and calisthenics. The girls classes take part in various modifications of these activities and sports plus several others including group games and folk dancing.

AUDIO-VISUAL--The Audio-Visual department, under the direction of Mr. Cox, enhances learning through various means of sight and sound. Mr. Cox, with the aid of a student technician and fourteen projectionists, supervises the use of the projectors, orders films and records, maintains large wall charts, and is responsible for the maintenance of any visual-aid equipment. The various film strips, slides, movies, overhead projections shown by either the overhead or the opaque projectors, charts, and records are of great benefit to the school system; for by seeing and hearing the lessons, memorization comes easier.

LIBRARY--One of the most useful and important departments in the high school is the library. It boasts a wide selection of both fiction and nonfiction books, reference books of all kinds, and current periodicals. These resources are at the disposal of any student who wishes to make use of them. Under the guidance and supervision of the librarian and her assistants, students are encouraged to use the books freely. The library department works closely with the other academic departments to aid the students in supplementing their regular study with outside resources. The library is also used by many students as a place to pursue their many courses of study.

Guidance--One of the most important and necessary departments in the school is the Guidance Department, under the direction of Mr. Trisler and Mrs. Huntzinger. Its duties include supervising all intelligence and achievement tests given and keeping a record of each student's scores and grades. It also assists the upperclassmen with their plans for the future by furnishing information about college choices and job opportunities. In this way, the Guidance Department provides invaluable service to each student in the school.

Social Studies--Developing and instilling in its students an interest in the past, present and future is the task of the Social Studies Department. Therefore, younger students study World History and Geography in order to obtain a background of knowledge about the world in which they live. They also explore the history of the state of Indiana and discern many facts about their home state. Upperclassmen study American History and Government to increase their knowledge of the country in which they live--a knowledge which is vital in everyone's life.

In order to keep pace with the fast-moving world of today, the Social Studies Department has recently added another course to its curriculum. Senior students now explore the ever-growing field of sociology, which helps them to have a better understanding of people and their problems and prepares them for the situations they will encounter in modern society.

English--Through the efforts of the English Department, Lapel students are trained to be adept in creative and technical writing, fluent in public speaking and debate, and comprehensive in the field of literature. Students are given a complete background of the fundamentals of the English language. In composition classes they are encouraged to organize their own ideas into comprehensive themes and essays. Through training in debating and public speaking they are taught to have self-confidence and to express themselves vocally. In literature classes they study the classic works of the great American and English writers and poets. These various classes serve to acquaint the students with all divisions of the English language.

Art--Students at Lapel who possess artistic talent are given occasion to express themselves through various art classes because self-expression of thoughts and emotions is vital to everyone. Drawing, painting, crafts, and ceramics all supply an outlet for personal expression. Art education provides many students with an opportunity to develop their individual creative potential.

Music--The main function of the Music Department is to develop in the students an interest in and appreciation for all fields of music. In music class the students learn the rudiments of music and become acquainted with the classic composers and their works. Through participation in Concert Band, Marching Band, Concert Choir, and Girls Choir students are encouraged to develop their individual talents, both vocal and instrumental. In music theory class students study advanced musical structure and learn to compose their own songs. These classes all contribute to the advancement of the students by cultivating interests and talents that might otherwise go unnoticed.

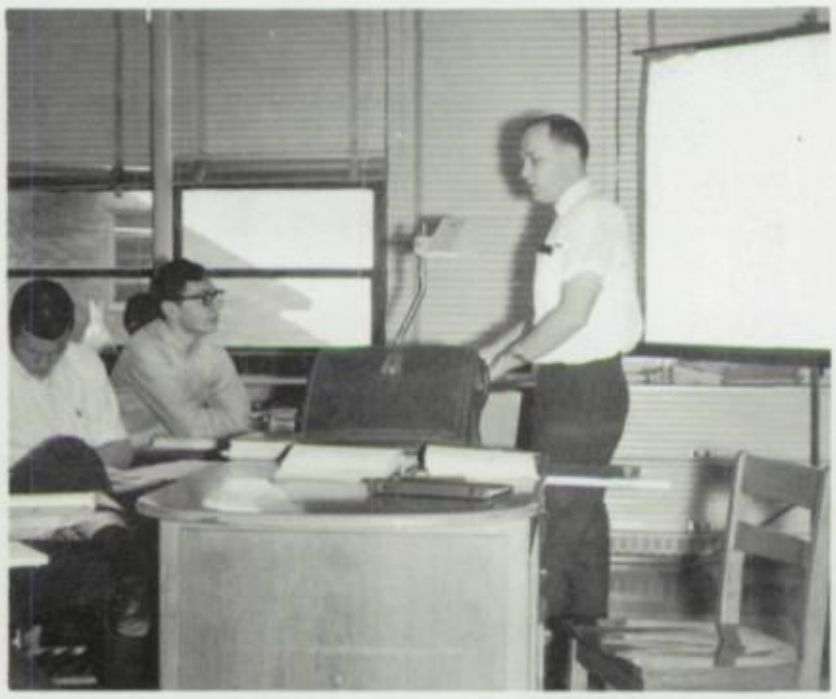
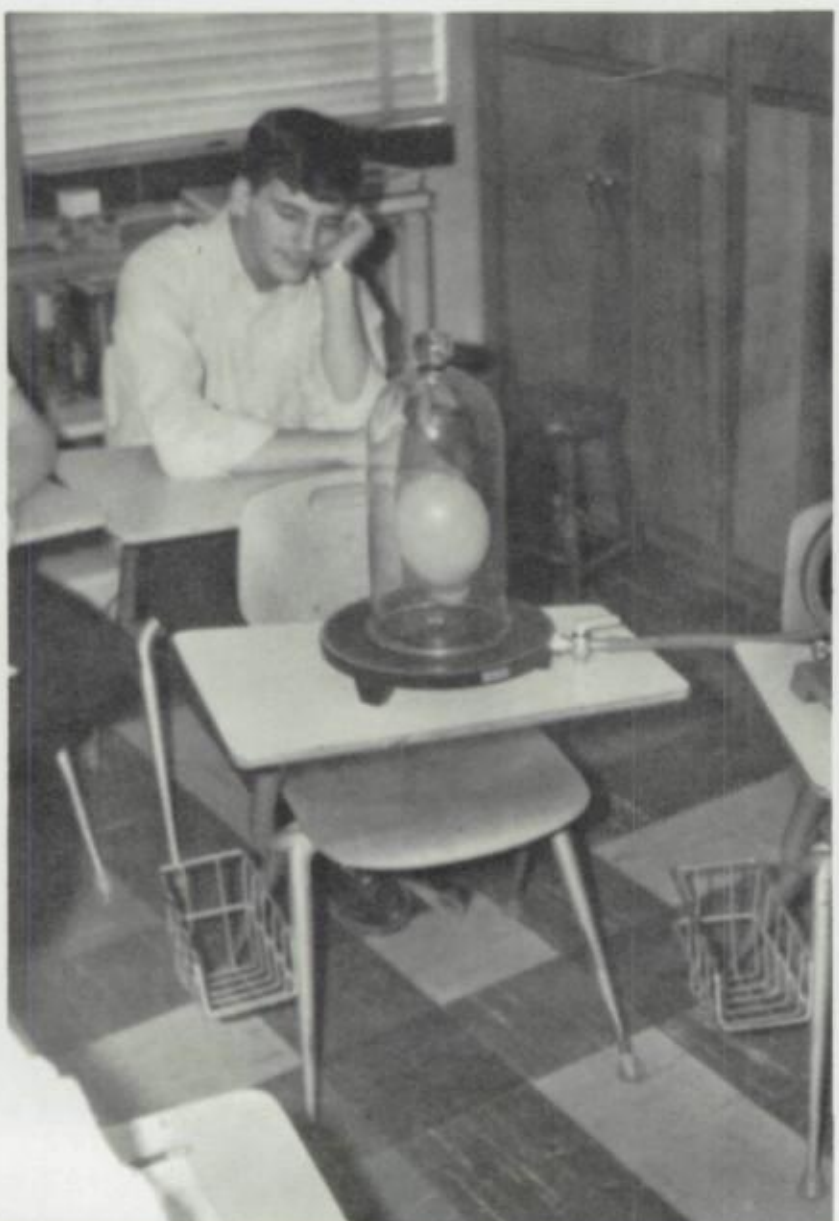
Science--The study of the ever-advancing world of science begins with the study of man and his environment in a Freshmen biology course. Biology students gain first-hand knowledge as they dissect a variety of animals, collect and catalogue leaves and flowers, and examine living organisms. This study is also a preliminary course to more specialized sciences. Accurate formulas, the proper use of chemicals and correct lab procedures are a few of the skills learned from the Chemistry course.





Intricate safety procedures are taught as students learn to use the laboratory units. Separate units make individual learning much easier in this course. Physics, the most advanced science course, is offered only to Seniors. Physics is the science which deals with matter and its physical changes. This course, as well as the previously mentioned ones, prepares students for the study of science in colleges.

Math--The Mathematics department prepares many students for advanced work on college level and instructs others in fundamentals and principles useful in everyday life. First and second year Algebra, Geometry, and Senior Advanced Math provide occasion for exploring into this fundamental science. Students encounter, among other things, the methods and logic of "new math" as they delve into the far-reaching field of mathematics.

Agriculture--The main objective of the vocational education in agriculture is to prepare the vocational pupil for proficiency in the products. The agriculture courses I and II are taught alternate years to the combined Freshman and Sophomore boys, while courses III and IV are offered alternate years to the Junior and Senior boys.

The F.F.A. is a vital part of the Ag program because it is through F.F.A. that boys learn judging and compete with other boys in many farming practices.

The Agriculture Class participates in such activities as: land judging, crop judging, livestock judging, F.F.A. contests, poultry judging, and various beneficial field trips.

Industrial Arts--Industrial Arts is a study of the tools, materials, and processes of industry. Courses in Drafting and Shop help develop skill and proficiency in a boy's chosen field.

Drafting is offered in all four high school years. The first two years are spent learning general drafting practices, the third year in learning machine drawing, and the fourth in studying architectural drawing.

Only three years of Shop courses are offered at Lapel: Wood Shop 10, Metal Shop 11, and Advanced Shop for Seniors. An individual project and project plan are required every six weeks, and the students are also required to follow rigid safety precautions as they prepare their projects.

Home Economics--Girls interested in Home Economics or Nursing careers or the practical knowledge needed in home management, benefit greatly from the four years of Home Economics offered at Lapel.

Home-Ec I is a prerequisite for Home-Ec II, as is Home-Ec III. Such useful topics as foods and clothing, personality development, home nursing, child development, consumer buying, family buying, and home management are taught in the three-year course.

Two field trips, one to the Indianapolis Home Show and one to the Kroger Distribution Center, taken by the Junior and Senior girls, and a banquet given for the faculty by the Senior girls complete the well-rounded Home-Ec curriculum.

Commercial--Courses in business education enable the student to advance in the ever-expanding world of business. Although these courses intertwine, they are generally referred to separately.

A Secretarial Training course helps students obtain and maintain their previous performances in Typing and Shorthand courses, while it acquaints students with office machinery and office skills.

A General Business course contributes to the better understanding of business occupations, wise buying practices, and the budgeting and recording of finances.

Students are acquainted with Bookkeeping and Accounting as occupations to aid them in making decisions concerning their career fields in a Business Law course.

The Many Helpers

We the students of Lapel owe much to people on this page and the next page, for these people have given much of their time to help make L.H.S. a better school. Remember these people when you walk down the halls, watch films in classes, ride a bus to and from school, and when you eat lunch at noon. Try to help make these peoples' jobs a little easier so that they can add to your future in school. Who knows, you might be in their place someday.

People

Symbols of Excellence

All the world is made up of people. When nations become great or causes become strong it is because people sacrifice bravely and freely to make their dreams come true. So it is with the "people" of Lapel High School. They make friends, organize activities, adopt causes and unite their strength for common goals. They learn to understand their teachers, their classmates, and themselves. Some are leaders, some athletes, some scholars, but all are tied together by a common bond. Here we have the people who make up Lapel High School.

We, the Class of 1968, wish to dedicate this page to our friend and classmate, Terry L. Prifogle. A tragic auto accident took Terry from our midst in October, 1966. Although he is sadly missed by all of us, we know that God in His wisdom has prepared for Terry a place of eternal happiness.

The Senior Class would also like to pay tribute to the boys who have graduated from Lapel and are now serving their country overseas. Their names are too numerous to mention, but their valiant courage will never be forgotten.

Administration

Principal--Gerald T. Roudebush

I would like to congratulate the class of 1968 for its many achievements. The faculty, community, and I are proud of the things for which this class stands, and this annual will help preserve the memories of the activities and the achievements of the last four years.

I would like to thank all members of the class for their work and cooperation in making this a very successful school year.

I would especially like to thank Jim Prather for his work in designing a new seal for our school, which will appear for the first time on this annual, but will also be put on all official school papers sent from our school office.

Again I would like to thank each of you for your cooperation and wish you success and happiness in your future.

We say that because two out of three people would have flipped this page without ever trying to get through the maze. But you didn't. And that's a good indication of the kind of career you might enjoy.

Scientists, for instance, are the kind of people who thrive on challenge. That's what leads them to science courses in school. And draws them into a lifetime of problem-solving in a scientific career.

Take our scientists. They keep seeing a better way to design ignition systems—and they do it. They never stop looking for further improvements in our generators. Without their curiosity and appetite for challenge, we could never have designed our silver zinc batteries for missiles.

And without students like you, we won't be able to meet the fantastic challenges of the future.

So, if science interests you, dig in now. Tomorrow not only needs you—it needs you to be good.

Here at Delco-Remy, we're definitely a part of tomorrow.

So we'll be looking for you. Right after college.
